

[126] The Sociology and History of Economic Crises

Professor: M. Choumerianos

The subject aims to examine the features and forms of expression of economic crises in Greece of the 19th and 20th century, and also of their consequences in the social and political field. There is being given a special emphasis to the way in which each political power tries to manage aspects of the economic crises within the circumstances. In addition, there emphasis given to the features of social protest, expressed due to the crisis' consequences (theoretical- experiential approach). Finally, there shall be developed issues related to the formation or not of conditions of appearance for changes, in a social/cultural level, during the period of expression of crises and further.

Books:

Th. Sakellaropoulos, Crises in Greece 1830-1857. Economic, Social and Political Aspects, book A, Athens, Kritiki, 1994(in Greek).

Th. Sakellaropoulos, Crises in Greece 1830-1857. Economic, Social and Political Aspects, book B, Athens, Kritiki, 1994(in Greek).