

Sociology of political systems, I . Forms of modern political systems and the greek political system
Code 300129 Semester 7

This course introduce students to the sociology of political systems. Moreover, it examines forms of modern political systems and especially the greek political system. The sociological interest in political systems is figuring out who holds the power in the relationship of the government and its people and how the government's power is used. Authoritarianism, monarchies and democracy are the three types of political systems that sociologist consider.